ASB to Vote Thursday On Court Amendment

Students also will have an opportunity to amend an article of the ASB constitution Thursday when they go to the polls to cast ballots on candidates for class officers, Council representatives and court justices.

The proposed amendment lowers the unit requirements for positions on the student court bench and distributes the elections of justices over the three quarters. This amendment reads:

"The student court shall consist of seven justices who shall be ASB members on clear standing, having been enrolled in this college for at least one year at the time of taking office. Of these, one man and one woman who have completed 115 units, shall be elected in the spring quarter to hold office for one year. Two students, one man and one woman, who have completed 100 units shall be elected in winter quarter to hold office for one year. Two students, one man and one woman who have completed 100 units shall be elected during the latter part of the fall quarter. A student court justice shall take office the first day of the first quarter following his election."

If this proposed amendment does not pass, the two justices elected in the coming elections will not take office and the two incumbents will stay in office until elections in the spring under the constitution as it now stands.

Article V, Section 1 of the constitution now requires that the elections of all justices shall take place in the spring. Two of these, one man and one woman have to have 120 units for eligibility, two people, one man and one woman must have 75 units to serve on the court, and two others, one man and one woman must have completed 45 units. All these justices serve for one year.

the college free of charge. Mr. Ted Balgooyen, speech and drama instructor in charge of his appearance, announced Friday.

"Vincent Burns is one of our more versatile stage personalities," Balgooyen said. "He is a noted author, poet, editor, radio artist, and lecturer. Don't miss his appearance here at the college."

In his performance tomorrow night, Burns will characterize a cowboy, soldier, Chinaman, farmer, gypsy, college professor, Scotchman, Irishman, and a woodsman. He will appear on the stage of the Little Theater in costumes typical of the characters he is portraying.

Burns, who is a graduate of Pennsylvania State college, did graduate work at Harvard and Columbia universities. During the first World War he served on the staff of General Foote in France.

His anthology of war verse, "The Red Harvest," was begun in the trenches.

By BEV LYMBURNER

Any seniors graduating in the December class of 1949, or the March, June, or September, classes of 1950 are eligible for participation in this spring's Senior week, the senior council announced Friday. Shrew Fills House In Eight Day Run

More than 2200 people saw the eight-day production of "Taming of the Shrew" which ended Friday night in the Little Theater, according to Verda Jackson, Speech department secretary.

There was "standing room only" for the hilarious Shakespearean comedy. Many people had to be turned away each night.

"Taming of the Shrew" was the third longest running play in the history of the Speech and Drama department, topped only by "Hamlet" with 17 performances and "Medea" with nine.

Tickets for Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" will go on sale in the Speech office, room 57, on Mar. 2. Already three more performance nights have been added, making it also an eight-day run. The show starts Mar. 9 and runs through Mar. 17 with the exception of Sunday, Mar. 12.

Mark Hellinger's "The Naked City" is being presented at the college Little Theater Wednesday night at 8:15 by the San Jose Players at the low cost of 35 cents as a service to the students, Joe Guzzetti, chairman of the affair, announced last week.

Tickets are on sale in Room 57, Speech office, from 12:30-3:30 o'clock daily.

The picture features Howard Duff and Barry Fitzgerald.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. THOMPSON

Captain Teaches Air Force Supply

With eight years of military service that includes participation in the Berlin airlift and the B-29 Superfortress project, Captain John W. Thompson last week took over the chores of teaching Air Force Supply to the Air ROTC units at San Jose State college.

Technically Captain Thompson has been stationed at Fairfield-Suisun Airbase since 1947, but went to Europe on detached duty serving on the historic airlift from July 1948 to January 1949.

As an officer at Fairfield-Suisun, which is located near Sacramento, Thompson served as operations officer for all aircraft flying between the mainland and Hawaii.

Prior to World War II the Captain attended Colorado State college and the University of Washington, his major being education. This is his first assignment as an instructor, filling a vacancy left by Major John Babel in the Military Science department.

Court to Amend 'Obscure' Article

The student court will wind up its campaign to delete all obscurities and stiff legalities from the court constitution today by amending Article VII which deals with the duties and responsibilities of the prosecuting attorney.

All cases must now be brought before the court by the prosecuting attorney. The question of to whom he is directly responsible, the council or the student body, will be the most important clarification made by the court.

Robert Vogeler, 38, American assistant vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company in Hungary, will be tried on espionage charges Friday, the Hungarian government reported recently.

The Hungary Ministry of Justice said a Briton and five Hungarians, including a priest and a baroness, will be tried with him. The report said Vogeler and the British subject, Edgar Sanders, had "confessed."

Miss Mary Hooton, women's swimming instructor at San Jose State college, is seen here with the life-saving award presented to her last week by the American Red Cross in the offices of President T. W. MacQuarrie. The award together with a water safety pin were the first such awards Miss Hooton has ever received and the first of their kind to be made in San Jose. Miss Hooton received them for the valor she showed last New Year's day when she rescued her father and another man from the surf near Watsonville.

English Majors to Hear Discussion of Exams

"The new form of comprehensive examinations" will be the main topic of discussion at an English meeting to be held tomorrow in Room 24 at 3:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Bobbie Waddington, secretary to the English department. All English majors, regardless of their class, are invited to attend. Mrs. Waddington explained that she mailed 150 cards to students. Those not notified by mail are also invited.

Mr. O. C. Williams, head of the examination committee, will discuss and explain the new form. Since all English majors must take a five-hour comprehensive examination before getting their degrees, Mrs. Waddington said, this meeting will be worth their time.

Mr. Raymond W. Barry, department head, will introduce the speakers.

A program for acquiring a Master's degree will be discussed by Dr. Harold P. Miller, chairman of the steering committee, and Dr. Paul Roberts, chairman of the language examination committee.

Dr. James O. Wood, English instructor, will talk on the Phelan contest.

Insects Arrive At Science Dept.

They were sent here by Keizo Yasumatsu, member of the faculty at the Imperial university in Kyushu. He is corresponding with Dr. Duncan.

"They will be added to the general department collection of insects in Dr. James Tilden's entomology laboratory," Dr. Duncan said.

State Teachers Hold Convention In San Jose; Name Wright Chairman

More than 300 commerce teachers from high schools, colleges, and universities throughout California will convene in San Jose April 3 and 4, according to an announcement by the general chairman, Mr. Mel Wright, associate professor of the Commerce department of San Jose State college.

Woman Shortage

For every 10 senior men on the San Jose State college campus there are four senior women while for every 10 freshman men there are about seven and a half freshman women.

The over-all proportion makes it six women for every 10 men.

These figures, recently released by the Registrar's office, show how the campus slowly is returning to pre-war conditions.

The fall of 1946 saw the great influx of veterans, who entered as freshmen. Following a normal program, most of them are being graduated this June.

Although 1947 was marked by still more freshmen vets., the number was sharply cut down in 1948 and last year the proportion of entering men and women was almost equal.

A breakdown of the total 7400 registration figure gives 4634 men and 2766 women enrolled in both state and junior college. Of these, 2076 are freshmen, 1572 sophomores, 1755 juniors, 1647 seniors and 350 are graduate students.

Ex-Student Receives Award

Miss Paula Phillips, former San Jose State college student, has been awarded a fellowship at the University of Maryland.

The fellowship, which covers tuition and maintenance for one full year at the university, was given to Miss Phillips after competition with applicants from all over the United States.

While at San Jose State college, Miss Phillips was active in Tri Sigma and the Student Y. She was a social service major and plans to continue her studies in that field.

The information was received in a letter to Milton B. Rendahl, associate professor of sociology at San Jose State college.

WAA League Basketball Games Close

The Tan Tans raced to a decisive victory over the WAA Stars in a San Jose State college women's basketball tournament game played Thursday in the Women's gym. The final score was 24 to 9.

In League two the Gamma Flies defeated the Baker Bears by a seven point margin, 24 to 17. In another close game, only three points separated Mary George Coop and the Rec Majors, with the Majors taking it at the horn.

CWC won over Presbyterian hall. The Pearls took the thriller 19 to 14.

The night cap saw the Y Comets win over CCF 23 to 14.

Miss Ball Speaks On 'Your CSTA'

Miss Mary Ball, state executive secretary of the California Teachers' association and adviser to the California Student Teachers' association, will address this week's regular meeting of CSTA Wednesday afternoon, according to CSTA President Dick Cirigliano.

The topic of Miss Ball's speech will be "Your CSTA". The group will meet in Art room 1-A at 4 p.m. Miss Ball's talk has been especially designed for students who are not acquainted with CSTA and its functions, Cirigliano said.

A question-answer period will follow Miss Ball's discussion. Refreshments will be served under the direction of Jim Waybrew. Ed Lewis, vice president of CSTA, will make the appointments for committee chairmen.

Pritchard Gives Housing Figures

About 60 per cent of the San Jose State college coeds live away from home, according to figures released today by Mrs. Izetta Pritchard, housing director.

Of the total 2766 girls on campus this quarter, 529 live at home in San Jose or Santa Clara and 425 commute from ten miles or more.

Some 812 board and room, including the 300 who live at the CWC, the YWCA and Pratt Hall. Sorority houses account for 183 girls, while 281 live in rooms with kitchen privileges and 30 room and eat their meals out.

Approximately 139 girls live in apartments, while 186 are married and live in their own homes. Some 42 live in cooperative houses, while 47 work for their board and room. About 92 are nurses and live in nurses' residences.

This information, which is obtained from the housing cards in the registration booklets, is used to estimate campus housing needs.

Wiley Says All Students May Attend Conference

A statewide conference sponsored by the California State Recreation commission and the California Recreation society, a private organization, will be held Tuesday to Friday inclusive, at the San Jose Municipal auditorium, according to a report from the Women's athletic department at San Jose State college. Miss Mary Wiley, on the program planning committee for the conference, said that all students are welcome to attend any or all meetings during the week.

Registration fee is one dollar, Miss Wiley said.

"So far about 75 students have registered through the department to attend the conference," Miss Wiley announced, "but I hope that many other students with majors other than recreation or physical education will attend. Sociology is so closely related to the field of recreation that I feel students majoring in it or art, drama, occupational therapy or public relations would find valuable information at the conference."

A special student session will be held Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., she added. Don Eager, a San Jose State student majoring in recreation will preside.

Staters Dump Cal Poly, Lose to Gaucho Quintet

By BERK BAKER

Two red hot quintets were waiting for the San Jose State cagers in the south this weekend but the Spartans managed to get a split, beating Cal Poly, 67-61 and losing to Santa Barbara 50-44.

The divide gave the Joseans a record of two wins and three losses in conference play.

On Friday night in San Luis Obispo SJS ran its winning streak to seven games, but had it halted the next night by the eager Gauchos.

The Mustangs, CCAA cellar dwellers, wanted to beat the Joseans on Friday night and they came pretty close, too. Led by all conference guard Hank Moroski, the Poly five overcame an early deficit and rolled to a 36-34 half-time advantage.

At one point in the first half the hosts led 22-12, but San Jose fighting for its seventh consecutive win kept things warm for the country boys as Bob Wuesthoff paced the attack. Wuesthoff did everything well. He played his usual fine floor game and topped of the performance with 17 points.

Late in the initial period Stu Inman, Wuesthoff and George Clark tied the score on different occasions but couldn't quite get an intermission tie.

In the last half the Joseans came back fast. Inman made good on a pusher with one half minute gone to make a 36-36 deadlock. Seconds later the versatile Inman stole the ball and turned it in to the leading points.

Clark, rebounding stalwart of the Spartan game, turned his ankle with 12 minutes remaining in the contest and had to be removed from the floor. Bobby Crowe, substituting for Clark, made good on a layup a moment later to give the Spartans the lead they lost a minute before, 46-45. From there on in Sparta held and rabid loyalists of San Luis Obispo had little to yell about.

The Santa Barbara affair Saturday night saw the Bay Area five take an early lead and hold it until six minutes had passed. The lead then boomeranged back and forth until the half ended at a draw, 24-24.

The Gauchos came back fast in the second half before a spirited hometown crowd to make their first four floor shots and take command from then on in. San Jose, somewhat tired from the night before, wasn't too effective, but the defense offered by Coach William Wilton wasn't allowing for easy shots.

With six minutes remaining in the torrid contest the San Jose hoopers used a pressing defense but weren't able to make a dangerous threat.

Inman had four fouls on him at the end of the half and finally fouled out with a little over a minute to play. Clark, playing with a twisted ankle, did well but was handicapped to some extent.

Coach Wilton of the winners said it was "definitely the best ball game his men played all season. We were really up for this one."

San Jose vs. USF Here or 'Palace'?

Should the USF-Spartan basketball game be played here in our own gym, or in the San Francisco Cow Palace? This question has arisen over the weekend, and tonight the college athletic department must decide. After reading both sides to the story, drop any suggestions you may have in the Thrust and Parry box in the Journalism office before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

However, Coach Walt McPherson and the Spartan team will have final say as to what will be done. Your suggestions, nevertheless, will be appreciated by the group in question.

By CLIFF DANIELS
Let's keep the Don-Spartan basketball game on the campus. This contest, to be played Feb. 21, was originally slated for the local gym, but Frank Walsh, Cow Palace chairman and the USF athletic staff wish the encounter to take place in the Cow Palace.

However, this switch has certain bad features.

Coach McPherson's men have really hit their stride, and have a fine chance to go the distance now without another defeat. By playing USF on the local hardwood, they will have an advantage which always rides with the home team.

The game is scheduled for Tuesday night which will necessitate a long journey to San Francisco, and upon arriving, each student will have to kick through with 50 cents plus student body card. People with 7:30 a.m. classes won't appreciate the late hours.

National prestige is at odds with the dollar sign. What if we make a few more checks in Frisco, a victory over the Dons will advance San Jose State college into the national spotlight. We are trying to elevate ourselves from the small college class. A victory over USF will accomplish this aim.

By BOB HEMINGWAY
Let's not keep the Don-Spartan basketball game on the campus. It should be played in the Cow Palace by all means! Why? Here's why!

At the Cow Palace the entire student bodies of both schools would be able to find seating space. In addition, the general public could (and would) be able to see the game. At San Jose, only 1500 State students and 800 USF students would be able to gain admission. The general public would not be admitted.

By playing at the palace San Jose State college would stand to make a profit of from $500 to $1000. Neat, huh? Playing in Spartan gym, the school would lose approximately $100. (expenses for officials, police, upkeep).

Then there is always the argument that San Jose is playing in the "big city"; before the big-city crowd (there will be a crowd since USF has a large following); before the big-city sports writers. Prestige is what San Jose State college wants and needs. Prestige is what she will get.

What? It's too long a trip? Fifty cents is too much to pay? Why heck, Buster. What's 80 miles and four-bits in your young life?

Science Profs Greet Charter Members

Science Students Hear Local CSTA Official

"This college desperately needs an organization of teacher trainees in science to get together those students for extra-curricular studies and field trips," Mr. John Harville, instructor in nature study at San Jose State college told a group of science students Thursday on the local campus.

The group was the initial meeting of students interested in becoming student affiliates of the California Science Teachers association, a branch of the national organization.

"Local meetings can help introduce and orient students to problems of teaching. Belonging to the student part of the state association can also be valuable in job-hunting and getting badly needed experience that can't be furnished at school," Mr. Harville, vice-president of CSTA, northern section, explained.

He cited some of his own experiences in student groups while attending San Jose State college. He was graduated in 1940.

Dr. Gertrude Cavins, sponsor of the embryonic group, has been most eager about the possibilities of such an extra-curricular-study group for science students.

During her class of science education devoted entirely to teacher trainees in science, Dan Armistead was elected chairman Friday, according to Dr. Cavins. Program planning will be headed by Robert Neal and secretary will be Ruth Dawkins.
